

NAHAR PLUS GROUP COMPANY PROFILE

Nahar Plus Group (NPG) is a Kuwait based company established in 1997 by Nahar Al-Mutairi. NPG has extensive experience in bringing international expertise, knowledge, products and training to the GCC States, working closely with governments and the commercial community.

Our main focus is on the Defence and Oil & Gas sectors, with our highly experienced staff we are able to provide our partner companies with in-depth local knowledge on market opportunities and help them manage their market penetration in the region.

NPG currently supply GCC militaries weapons and weapon systems, ECM equipment and training, robotics, optics, EOD equipment and training, military vehicles, ammunition, electronic data and voice interception and many other items.

We are selective in the companies that we work with, ensuring we provide our customers with only the best; over the years this has garnered a high level of trust and ensured us a ‘preferred bidder’ status.

For international companies we reduce their costs by permanently having a ‘face’ for them on the ground, being alert to local opportunities – sometimes before they are made public, understanding the customer’s needs and modus operandi and knowing the key people to connect with for each opportunity.

Our staff is a blend of local and international personnel which allows us to understand and manage both the customer's and the vendor's expectations with regard to corporate governance, timelines, local traditions and sensitivities. This vastly reduces risk on behalf of international companies and assists with their planning and decision making.

Nahar Plus Group General Trading & Contracting Company (NPG) is a Kuwait registered company launched in 1997. NPG has extensive experience in bringing international expertise, knowledge, products and training to the GCC States.

We work closely with governments and the commercial community in military and security, industrial and commercial activities.

Our professional staff includes engineers and former military officers with vast experience in their relative fields. This coupled with some of the world's highly qualified and reputable companies help us to provide our clients with a world class service.

We are able to work to tight deadlines and deliver to exacting customer requirements; this ability has enabled us to win the trust of national governments and large commercial entities throughout the GCC region.
